INTRODUCTION

The three statistical books in figures are showing the numbers and Genders of complaints submitted to the Society since its foundation in 18/1/1425 corresponding to 9/3/2004 up to the end of 1427 (2006) which amounted to 8,568 . These complaints were collected and classified by the Information, Statistics and Authentication Center of the society. The complaints are classified into eight main categories: Administrative, prisoners, labor, family violence, civil affairs, personal affairs, judicial and “Other” cases. Each category was divided into segments, for instance the personal affairs cases include divorce complaints, nursery, alimony, suspension, removal of guardianship, prevention from seeing children, prevention from inheritance etc.

The objectives set out by the society for counting, classification and tabulation of the cases may be summarized as follows:

- To enhance the standard of studies and reports issued by the society by including a significant source that supports such studies and reports through the complaints received.
- To enhance the standard of planning of the society activities and programs, where planning that depends on real facts will be more effective to achieve the goals and desired results.
- Encourage researchers and students to study and investigate the human rights cases. Presenting the case in the Statistical Book open doors for thorough researches in different aspects including legal, psychological, social, administrative, educational, economical and cultural researches.
- Enriching the legal library through providing field statistics, an aspect which is not available in such library.
- Support the government bodies to prepare the reports of the International Agreements joined by the Kingdom in the field of human rights, where in most cases such reports were in short on some statistics or non-availability of same.
- To give opportunity to government and non-government bodies to get acquainted with the weaknesses of their performance, particularly in relation to policies, procedures, practices, adherence to regulations and required efforts to enhance these areas.
- To allow the society to make comparisons between performance of the concerned parties at the year of the study and the previous year using different indicators such as percentage of cooperation with the society which is measured by the number of letters issued by the society and number of responses.

- To allow the society to know and identify any area of problem or phenomena that needs comprehensive study to find solutions that limit the recurring accusations, stop it and eliminate their effects. This occurs upon repetition of individual complaints towards a particular practice.

Finally, I would like to thank the president of the Information, Statistics and Authentication Center / Sahla Zain Alabdeen Hammad for her genuine efforts to achieve this work, and my thanks also to the Presidents and members of the Observation and Follow Up Committee, supervisors of the Head Office in Riyadh, branches of the society in Jeddah, Jazan and Dammam, to the legal advisors for their efforts in studying complaints and addressing the government and non-government bodies, to the staff of the Information, Statistics and Authentication Center.
